

The New York State Career Development and Occupational Studies (CDOS) Commencement Credential

Key information for Parents

What is the CDOS Commencement Credential?

The CDOS Commencement Credential can be awarded, upon graduation from high school, to a student who has entry-level work readiness skills.

The CDOS Commencement Credential can be earned by students with disabilities with a regular high school diploma or as their only high school exiting credential for those who did not earn a local or Regents diploma.

- The CDOS Commencement Credential is not a local or Regents high school diploma.
- The CDOS Commencement Credential means the student has met the high school learning standards necessary for work success.

What will the student need to do to earn the CDOS Commencement Credential?

There are two ways to earn the CDOS Commencement Credential

Option I

➤ Complete a Career Plan.

A Career Plan includes information about a student's strengths, career interests and goals and a plan to reach those goals.

➤ Complete Career and Technical Education (CTE) Coursework and/or Work-based Learning.

A student must complete 216 hours of CTE coursework and/or work-based learning experiences in school, business or community settings to earn this credential. (At least 54 of the 216 hours must be completed through work-based learning).

➤ Achieve the CDOS learning standards at the high school commencement level. These standards include:

- ✓ Exploring career options;
- ✓ Using academic skills (like math) in work settings; and
- ✓ Skills important for job success, such as speaking with a boss, teamwork, self-advocacy, organization, and problem solving.

(See <http://www.p12.nysed.gov/cte/cdlearn/documents/cdoslea.pdf>)

➤ Have an Employability Profile that rates the student's skills demonstrated in work-based learning activities.

Option II

Pass one of the nationally recognized work-readiness assessments.

How will the NYS CDOS Commencement Credential benefit the student?

Preparation for the CDOS Commencement Credential will benefit the student by providing him/her with:

- ❖ Career planning and exploration through work-based learning experiences;
- ❖ Career related courses;
- ❖ Opportunities to practice skills learned in the classroom in work-based settings;
- ❖ Opportunities to learn what employers expect of employees;
- ❖ Potential future employment contacts in the community; and
- ❖ A Board of Regents endorsed credential that recognizes the student's readiness for entry-level employment.

What should you discuss with the school?

- When and how will the student complete his/her career plan?
- If needed, who will assist the student to complete a plan aligned with his/her strengths and needs?
- Based on the student's career goals, how will the school select courses and work-based learning activities needed by the student?
- When in the student's four or more years of high school will he/she take these courses and participate in the work-based learning?
- How will the school ensure that the student is taking courses to ensure he/she is working to graduate with a regular high school diploma?
- How will I be kept informed of my son or daughters progress toward the CDOS learning standards?
